Brighter Spots Appear in Ohio Peace Cut-Back

Unemployment Increases With Termination of War Contracts But Plants in Several Cities Report Labor and Production Outlook Is Encouraging

By The Associated Press
The continued cancellation of war contracts of plants throughout Ohio today raised additional unemployment problems for many communities. Earlier state officials estimated 500,000 Ohio workers would be deprived of jobs by contract cutbacks. The overall picture, however, was not entirely bleak, plants in several cities reported their labor and production situation was encouraging.

Meandering Along the Main Stem

By WASH FAYETTE

The closing down of war plants has brought a flurry of scare and uncertainty to the nation — and the word "unemployment" is beginning to be more and more on every lip.

It is an ugly word, for so many of us remember the dark days of the early 30's when bread lines helped feed those unemployed millions. It's not a pretty thing to think about.

A radio commentator has hit on a good idea — call it a work holiday. That isn't a misnomer, because it's a cinch everyone has been working and working hard in the plants which have shut their doors temporarily. And it is a holiday because when the plants open their doors again, they will have jobs that are different and more up to date, attuned to the civilian market and to a peacetime economy.

Let's call it a work holiday.

I sometimes wonder if people read their newspapers as thoroughly as they should to keep informed on the changing events of the present.

There is an amazing amount of information — information that vitally concerns everyone — as well as what we of the craft call "human interest" in a newspaper.

Too many, I'm afraid, just glance at the headlines and draw hasty conclusions which frequently are not only half founded but completely wrong. Of course, there are many items in newspapers which are merely of passing interest in themselves but as a whole make up the human background.

Everyone by now knows in a vague sort of way about the atomic bomb—the secret weapon that broke Japan's warlords. It is a terrifying thing.

Most everyone takes it for granted that it was developed by scientists, built by workers in secret and dropped by big bombers on the enemy.

But, behind every story of achievement there is another story of the men who did it. So, The Record-Herald soon will give you the story of the men who made the atomic bomb. You will find it on the Editorial Page at the bottom of the page under a three-column box head "Washington at a Glance" by Jack Stinnett. It will come in six exclusive articles. Watch for them and don't fail to read them all.

This story does not concern the scientists who created with their genius; it concerns the men and the women who worked in the mystery plants where the bombs were made.

It's a story of the most vital manhunt of the war, how WMC and USES dug up a quarter million workers, snatched them from other war-important jobs, and kept them on this one.

REDS DRIVE ON AS SOME JAPS LAY DOWN ARMS

Confusion and Stalling Marks Slowness of Putting End To Actual Fighting

By LEONARD MILLIMAN
(By The Associated Press)
If the weather is pleasant Tokyo's surrender envoys will start their journey to Manila, two days behind schedule, the Mikado's imperial headquarters announced today as Japanese armed forces were reported actually laying down their arms on some fronts.

REDS ENTER HARBIN
SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 18.—(AP)—A Soviet commission landed today at Harbin, Manchuria, to pick up the Japanese surrender party for that province, the Russian radio at Khabarovsk reported in a broadcast recorded by the Federal Communications Commission.

Soviet forces which never halted their drive through Manchuria said 20,000 Nipponese have laid down their arms.

The American trained Chinese First Army, victors in North Burma, moved into Canton to accept surrender Sunday of Nipponese South China forces. Plans were laid for surrender next week of all invader troops in China, whose commander said they were already "in a state of cessation of hostilities."

Fifty thousand Japanese in Burma, however, showed no inclination to give up. They weren't fighting but many were still trying to escape to Thailand.

There was some confusion in other areas of southeast Asia, still entirely in Japanese hands. Tokyo reported the Thai government quit but their puppet state of Viet Nam, formerly Annam, in Indo-China intended to maintain its Tokyo-granted independence from the French. Paris said 60,000 French troops were ready to re-enter Indo-China.

Bougainville Surrender
A smiling Japanese major lead surrender envoys of Emperor Hirohito's 17th Army through a tropical downpour today to meet three Australian officers who had been waiting three days on the banks of the Mivo River of Bougainville Island in the Solomons.

The Japanese crossed the river under a white flag, carried by a private who bore a Nipponese flag in his other hand.

They were led by Major Otsu who saluted and bowed to Maj. J. R. Burrell of the 29th Australian Infantry Brigade. Australian War Correspondent Noel Ottaway reported Burrell returned the salute.

Through an interpreter Otsu acknowledged the emperor had been defeated and said he had sent by Lt. Gen. Kanda to receive terms for the surrender of the 17th Japanese Army.

Otsu smiled broadly when told to enter Major Burrell's jeep, and was still smiling when blindfolded and driven through groups of cheering Aussies toward division headquarters.

Reds Close on Harbin
Soviet armored columns closed in on the key city of Harbin today as Japanese forces in Manchuria continued to resist despite an ultimatum to surrender by noon Monday.

An indication the Japanese front might be cracking was seen, however, in Russian reports that 20,000 of the enemy had laid down their arms.

The Russians drove a three-sided attack on Harbin today.

Body of Baby Found
PAINESVILLE, O., Aug. 18.—(AP)—Pfc. P. C. Crawford, a Cleveland medical student, yesterday found the body of an infant boy about one month old in a stream at Painesville Township Park. Coroner W. R. Carle said the child died of drowning.

ABOARD VICE ADM. JOHN MCCAIN'S FLAGSHIP OFF JAPAN, Aug. 18.—(AP)—Notes aboard a carrier:

The war officially was over today for the fliers of this carrier torpedo bomber squadron. Lt. Cmdr. Eddie V. Weddell, the squadron skipper, had shaved off his mustache.

Eddie, a tall boy, of Coronado, Calif., however made sure his wife and small daughter will at least see the mustache. When he removed it he first placed scotch tape over it carefully and when it was cut off with clippers the mustache remained affixed to the tape.

"I thought maybe it would look good in a scrap book," he commented, "so I am sending it to my wife."

The days of expertly sifting ship's rumors and adding spicy bits of his own is over for Lt.

Japs Presumptuous! Plans Outlined for Occupation Already

Government Radio Tells People To Face Realities Calmly and That Landing of Allied Forces Will Be Orderly During Reconstruction—Defeat in War Also Explained

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 18.—(AP)—Japan's invasion jitters have given way to occupation jitters, Domei Agency indicated today in denying as "groundless" rumors that American troops and a "Chungking Army" had landed on Honshu.

A Domei dispatch, recorded by the Federal Communications Commission, said an unidentified Tokyo newspaper reported rumors Americans had landed at Shimoda in the Izu Peninsula southwest of Tokyo and that a Chungking Army had entered Osaka city.

The newspaper urged the Japanese not to credit such "irresponsible rumors" but to "place absolute confidence in the reports announced by authoritative sources, the radio and newspapers," and said:

"The landing of occupation armies on Japan's mainland will be done in an orderly fashion after conclusion of the truce agreement. We must remember that any irresponsible act or speech will cause the loss of Japan's faith and hinder postwar reconstruction. We must calmly face realities without over anxiety."

Japan looked today to the post-war period and its problems: reconversion, rebuilding, new taxes, the upholding of its national policy in a projected national history—and to the preservation of "public peace and order" under the "emergency" of occupation.

More Food of All Kinds and End of Meat Rationing in Prospect for Civilians—Millions of New Homes Expected To Be Started Soon in Swing to Peacetime

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH
WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—(AP)—Americans will build 10 to 15 million homes in the next decade.

This was predicted today by the nation's new construction boss, Hugh Potter.

These were other high spots as the swing-over to peacetime living moved ahead:

1. Food officials forecast more food of all kinds for civilians as scheduled Army cutbacks go into effect over the next few months. Meat rationing may end next month.

2. There were signs labor and management leaders may have given the administration informal assurances that wartime no-strike, no-lockout pledges will be continued.

3. The War Production Board freed tremendous quantities of steel, copper and aluminum for consumer goods.

4. Plans for tax cuts took shape. Secretary of the Treasury Vinson said at a news conference he hopes for speedy action on a program in preparation.

5. Price controls came off imported wines and distilled spirits such as brandy, rum and cordials. But not whiskies. OPA said items freed had been selling below ceilings.

6. Surplus property officials said hundreds of government-owned war plants would be taken over by private industry during the next few months.

7. WPB Chairman J. A. Krug asked the nation's salvage committees to stay on the job. The need still is great for paper, tin cans and waste fats.

8. Quinine, restricted heretofore for the military's medical needs, is being released to civilians in limited quantities.

In predicting an unparalleled building boom, Construction Coordinator Potter said in an interview that all restrictions on the industry will be removed by Christmas. Many will go in a few weeks.

Potter, whose home is in Houston, Tex., took over the job of construction chief a few days ago at the request of John W. Snyder, reconversion director. He has a long background in the real estate and building business.

Potter expects shortages of lumber and other building materials to continue for awhile. But he thinks controls should be lifted so home builders will have some incentive to get architects to go to work on plans.

"There'll be a little scrambling for materials, sure, but that's good for American business," Potter said.

He predicted it will be possible to build at least 500,000 homes in 1946, and after that, 1,000,000 a year.

Prospects for an early revival of building "should put a big dent in unemployment," Potter said. He predicted when "things get rolling" four to eight million persons will have jobs in construction.

The War Manpower Commission estimated at the start of this year there were only around 700,000 workers on construction jobs.

On the food front, government supply agencies said that army requirements—already trimmed 20 per cent—will be cut back progressively over the next few months. They will be halved by next July.

Agriculture Secretary Anderson, predicting the meat rationing program may end soon, said the outlook is brightened by reduced military buying and a (Please Turn to Page Six)

Yank Photo Planes Are Attacked Again
OKINAWA, Aug. 18.—(AP)—American B-32s, flying reconnaissance missions, ran into anti-aircraft and Japanese fighter opposition over Japan for the second straight day today.

The B-32s were accompanied by P-38 Lightning fighters today. Yesterday, four B-32s encountered heavy anti-aircraft fire and had to fight off several persistent Japanese interceptors for 20 minutes.

One B-32 was heavily damaged yesterday. Today's photographic reconnaissance mission was over southern Japan.

Several U. S. planes were reported pierced by flak and bullets and some crew members injured. Headquarters said no personnel were injured yesterday.

LOOPHOLE LEFT HOWEVER - - DAY MUST BE FAIR

Plans for Occupation Being Made on Both Sides During Sparring

By RUSSELL BRINES
MANILA, Aug. 18.—(AP)—Japan officially informed General MacArthur tonight surrender emissaries would leave Japan Sunday morning—weather permitting—and a headquarters spokesman said they would be flown straight from Ie Island, off Okinawa, to Manila.

The official Japanese message said the emissaries would arrive at Ie about 1:20 P. M. Sunday (12:20 A. M. Sunday, Eastern War Time).

An American plane will pick up the emissaries from two green-crossed white Japanese transports at Ie and is expected to reach Manila at 7 or 8 o'clock that night. (7 or 8 A. M. Sunday EWT).

A spokesman said the Japanese credentials would be examined that night, but that the conference with MacArthur would not start until Monday.

The flight to Manila will require 5 1-2 to 6 hours after whatever delay is involved in the transfer and takeoff.

Japan's long delayed flight schedule — MacArthur originally instructed the envoy to reach Ie yesterday enroute to Manila—was radioed at 6:33 P. M. today, on the designated frequency. That was 87 minutes earlier than Japan had promised the information in a message which also said another frequency would be used.

Tokyo said the envoys would depart in two planes from Kisarazu airbase, southeast of Tokyo, at 7 A. M. (6 P. M. Saturday, Eastern War Time).

MacArthur had specified that one plane be used, and that it should depart from Santa Misaki on the southern tip of Kyushu Island.

The new Japanese message said the two planes, unarmed, twin engined, single winged land attack aircraft—would fly over Santa Misaki and gave a detailed schedule for the flight from that point to Ie Shima. It said the planes would bear "markings designated by you"—green crosses on a white background.

The Japanese apparently also were using different type planes than the one MacArthur designated: "Zero type, model 22-L2D3." The general however had said they could make such a change.

While MacArthur, flanked by newly arrived British, American, Australian and Chinese military leaders, had awaited Japan's reply to his "without further delay" ultimatum for the envoy schedule, the Japanese many hours earlier had reported that their representative would leave Sunday, without designating any hour for departure. Then the official channel fell silent.

The Japanese said the envoy planes, after passing over Santa Misaki, would land at Ie Shima. (Please Turn to Page Six)

Over 250,000 Die in World War II
WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—(AP)—More than a quarter of a million Americans were killed in World War II—and the casualty reports are still coming in.

Combat casualties now stand at 1,070,138, with 252,146 killed, 651,168 wounded, 44,206 missing and 122,618 prisoner.

The figures, reported yesterday, show 922,757 army casualties and 147,881 for the navy.

THREE FOURTHS OF NAVY OF JAPS IS DEMOLISHED
WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—(AP)—Only a fourth of Japan's combat ships are left, and some of them are so badly damaged they can't be used.

That's the way an official Navy spokesman sizes up the situation. He said yesterday that when the Japanese cried "uncle" they had no more than 112 ships. This compares with 242 at Pearl Harbor, and a wartime peak of 445.

On the food front, government supply agencies said that army requirements—already trimmed 20 per cent—will be cut back progressively over the next few months. They will be halved by next July.

For The Farmers Of Fayette County

SHEEP RAISERS 'WAIT AND SEE' ABOUT SUBSIDY

Move Designed To Encourage Increase When Flocks Smallest in Years

Fayette County's farmers who raise sheep as part of their overall farm plan had adopted a "wait and see" attitude regarding the government's new subsidy payments on sheep and lambs.

Some were openly skeptical; others were optimistic and hopeful. It is too soon to tell which are right.

The subsidy, designed to encourage breeding and feeding to create the nation's meat supply, went into effect about two weeks ago. The program is handled through the county AAA office.

While not many farmers have eliminated sheep from their program, some of them have reduced the size of their flocks because, they contend, they are not profitable. Those who are skeptical about the subsidy putting more money in their pockets, say they have a feeling that the packers will cut their buying prices to level of the subsidy and that in the end the figures will add up to the same sum. They are waiting to see if this feeling is justified before they start to increase their flocks.

Reliable farm surveys report that the number of sheep on farms now is the smallest in 17 years.

Officials of the AAA have said that the margin of profits between the cost of raising and feeding lambs and the price received for them was so narrow that farmers have been selling light lambs and reducing the number of ewes.

The subsidy payments which range from $1.50 to $3.15 per hundredweight, depending upon weight of the lamb and time of marketing, are expected to encourage feeding lambs to heavier weights and to increase ewe flocks.

Payment on lambs will be made through county AAA offices upon presentation of proof of sale to a licensed slaughterer or one with (Please Turn to Page Three)

CONSERVATION CAMP ATTENDED BY TWO

Loring Duff Barbara Clark County Delegates

Loring Duff of route five and Barbara Lee Clark of near Mt. Sterling will know a lot more about Ohio's natural resources and conserving them this time next week.

The two are Fayette County's delegates to the tenth annual 4-H conservation camp at Camp Ohio near Utica from Sunday through Friday.

W. H. Palmer, state club leader, says the club members will be taught that real conservation is the use of resources in such a way that present harvests do not destroy future crops. He explains that conservation applies to human beings as well as to soil, water and forests so the program includes human conservation.

When the camp was planned, wartime restrictions on food and transportation were more rigid than now when peace has been declared, so the enrollment was limited to 148 members from 48 counties. Normally, the enrollment included one boy and one girl from each county.

Farm Bureau Co-op Service Center Should Be Finished In 3 Months

THIS IS HOW the Farm Bureau implement service shop will look from South Fayette Street looking toward the center of town. The section on the right will be for display and sale of farm equipment while the rest of the building will be devoted to maintenance and repair. The Pennsylvania Railroad tracks are in the background. The buildings probably will be completed in three months.

The Farm Bureau's farm service shop, three years in the planning, is on its way to becoming a reality.

Already foundations have been laid for the building, which will be 248 feet long and 40 feet wide. The Severs-Williams Construction Company is erecting the farm repair center.

About three months will be required to complete the work, Clarence Cooper of the Farm Bureau, said today. He said the end of the war probably would have no material effect on the progress of the work because most of the necessary materials already had been purchased and were on hand.

Three years ago the idea for the farm machinery repair center first was planned. In February, 1944, the first bit of land was purchased from the Pennsylvania Railroad. In February, 1945, the B. and O. Railroad sold the rest of the land to the Farm Bureau. The area is between South Fayette and South Main Streets.

Fayette County Shepherd's Club

The summer time and early fall is an ideal time to select ewes for the flock, either to increase its size or to replace old or otherwise unprofitable ewes. Ewes should be well grown and thrifty, not necessarily fat but showing that they received good feed and are free from diseases. A good constitution for a ewe is indicated by active movements and alertness to strange sounds.

During the breeding season and for the preceding four weeks the ram should receive an extra grain ration that is not too fattening. Oats alone are very good or two parts of oats to one of bran will put him in excellent physical condition. The thin ram will need as ten parts of oats; five parts corn three parts of bran, one part linseed oil meal.

Always use a good, vigorous, purebred ram.

JAPS SURRENDER HAS NO EFFECT ON HOG PRICES

Government Subsidy Likely To Continue on All Livestock

By JERRY TRAGER
CHICAGO, Aug. 18 —(P)—Chicago livestock markets carried on daily this week despite the Japanese surrender and the fact that most killing floors were closed to mid-week trade.

Because some stocks would have to be held until next week's slaughter, packers demand price concessions ranging to 50 cents.

Questions concerning the influence of the war's end on livestock prices recalled the end of World War I on November 11, 1918 when a higher trend was noted several months following the armistice. Top hogs reached a record $23.60 in July, 1919 but slipped in late 1919. Cattle prices collapsed in early 1920 following a top $21.50 paid in December. (Please Turn to Page Three)

WATER THE BEES

That's a very important thing to do at this season of the year, for they use much water in making honey; and they need it as much as any other life form.

The best way to water them is to use shallow pans or crocks in front of the hives. Fill them about half full and then put some small wooden blocks in them, on which the bees can rest, while drinking.

I sometimes put some water at the entrance of the hive on hot days. I just spilled a little water on the top of hive and several bees were drinking it in a few minutes. That might be a good place to put the vessels containing the water.

STORING HONEY

"We put a newspaper on the floor in the attic, and then set a super on it, and then other supers high as we can reach," a very successful "bee man" recently told us. "Honey will keep indefinitely stored that way," he added.

"That's all right" another "bee man" said when I was telling him about this way of storing honey. (Please Turn to Page Three)

CHOLERA EPIDEMIC WOULD BE DISASTER

More than ever before, control of hog cholera will be an important factor affecting the national meat supply for the next 12 months, so farmers are urged to vaccinate their hogs if this preventive measure has not already been used.

Cholera, the records show, kills more hogs some years than others, but the average annual cost to livestockmen has been about $30,000,000. During the present meat scarcity, the destruction of hundreds of thousands of hogs by so preventable disease would be a national calamity.

Vaccination of pigs at three weeks of age or up to weaning time, is advised by most veterinarians, but treatment is effective at any age if the hog is in good condition at the time of vaccination. It may be possible to hold down death losses after the disease has appeared in a herd if a veterinarian is called to administer serum and virus before the hogs have lost their desire to eat.

One of the first symptoms of hog cholera is the animal's failure to answer mess call.

Most nuts contain large amounts of fat.

Corn Earworm Control Effected By Injection

By T. H. PARKS

Known in the Gulf States as the cotton boll worm, in Tennessee as the tomato fruit worm, and in Ohio as the corn earworm, the green worm in the tips of ears of late sweet corn is one of the most annoying of the many pests of home gardens. This is the larva of a moth that flies over corn fields and gardens by night and deposits eggs singly on green corn silks. The silks of a single ear may bear from 25 to 40 white eggs, all of which hatch, but only one or two of the larvae that start to feed ever become full grown.

This is due to their habit of living in a cannibalistic world and eating each other in case their paths should cross. This habit is the most important of natural control checks against this pest of corn. Other checks are present too, and high in the list is the low temperatures of Ohio winters. ## THE WAR TODAY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE—
By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
(Substituting for Mackenzie)

President Truman's remark, that he doesn't expect the Japanese to be able to seek revenge, presumably covers a United States determination to see that they don't—and it already looks like a matter far different from that of Germany.

After World War I the Germans cried that their Army had never been beaten, that other factors forced them to break off the war; given a fair chance, their Army would have won, and next time it would win. It almost did.

In Japan there is an Army estimated at 2,250,000 men which has not been beaten in this war, and already the Japanese are saying that they were forced to surrender by material and scientific power; that it is temporary; that the course for Japan is to bow to present circumstances and build for the future. The emperor admits only that "the war situation has developed not necessarily to Japan's advantage." They speak of regret for dragging down their "Allies," presumably the puppets they set up in the lands they overran.

Just before Hirohito broadcast his surrender rescript, Lt. Gen. Reikichi Tada, president of the Japanese board of technology, was on the air saying that "at this time the national feeling is no doubt a desire to rise anew and in the years to come to advance science to the point where some weapon superior to the new type bomb may be devised in revenge." He went on to say that they mustn't feel that way and, instead, must liquidate the military. That's one way to plant ideas without seeming to contradict your emperor while he's making peace, and without getting into an Allied jail.

In a recent issue of the "Infantry Journal," a "major general" Tada was quoted as saying:

"The divine mission of Japan puts her above treaty breaking because what would be wrong in the rest of the world is right in Japan. For Japan, any means justifies the end."

The Tadas are numerous in Japan, though not so numerous as the Smiths of America. But it seems immaterial whether "Lt. General" and "Major General" Tada are the same. It's the idea that counts.

The other night, between President Truman's announcement of Japanese surrender and Hirohito's famous broadcast, some of us stepped across the street to a restaurant for a snack. As we sat, surrounded by happy celebrants, someone noticed that we alone were subdued.

"I'm wondering whether we've really won the war," said one who has studied the war closely since its very beginning. "Of course you don't forget about all the lives we've saved. But whether this surrender before the invasion of the home islands will result in a net saving in the long run, I don't know."

Nobody took issue. We just went on eating amid the hornblowing, knowing that we could only wait and see.

CORN EARWORM CONTROL EFFECTED BY INJECTIONS SOON AFTER SILK COMES

which kill the over-wintering pupae in the soil. Few pupae are able to live over winter north of the Ohio River.

In winters like we had in 1945-46, a considerable number of pupae may live over, for the ground did not freeze deeply due to the snow and ice covering. For this reason, sweet corn lovers can expect more than the usual amount of wormy corn in September and early October. This is the season when the second generation of the larvae is at its peak in corn and sometimes on beans, tomatoes, and even on alfalfa.

There is no control for earworms on corn, except to treat the silk with an insecticide before the tiny worms reach the tip of the cob beneath. This is done by means of injecting a special oil into the tip of the ear shoot while the silk is still green but when some silks have begun to wilt at the tip, and at the sides.

The first wilting occurs about six days after the silks appear. For this reason, treatment with the oil insecticide should be made on about the fifth or sixth day of the silk's age. Treating before that time may prevent pollination of the corn, and treating too late may result in applying the oil after

MANY FARMERS READY TO BUY NEW EQUIPMENT

Survey in County by CED Shows War Bonds Will Pay Much of Bill

Farmers who bought War Bonds—sometimes under pressure—today are "sittin' pretty," so to speak, as they wait for the day when new farm equipment starts rolling off the assembly lines that for the past four years have been carrying implements of war.

A survey conducted more than a year ago by the Fayette County Committee for Economic Development showed farmers of this community had plans for postwar improvements that covered everything from painting up to remodeling. And, nearly all of them said they planned to get new farm equipment first of all.

It was apparent from this survey that farmers not only had been making money, but also that they had been saving it. Most of them said they were counting on the War Bonds to pay part, if not all, of the bills.

Next to new farm equipment came new trucks and family cars. Also high on the rural want list was new home furnishings.

A survey made by the Department of Agriculture on a nationwide basis showed that one farm in every four expects to buy a new tractor or other piece of power machinery as soon as they are available. The ratio of potential truck and car buyers was about the same.

In Fayette County, farmers' ambitions were greater than the national average on the basis of a survey comparison.

The desire for new farm equipment undoubtedly was stimulated by the shortage of farm labor and inability to get new, either outright or on trade-ins. In the emergency, old equipment was made to serve and many a farmer now admits that their old implements served them well, better than they would have thought possible under normal conditions.

Farmers are reported to have had property worth $83,000,000,000 on January 1, 1944, as compared with a property ownership of $54,000,000,000 on January 1, 1940. Farmers, in January, 1945, held $4,000,000,000 worth of war bonds.

er the newly hatched worms have reached the ear tip. The idea is to put down a lethal barrier zone through which the larva cannot pass.

The material to use is a special oil in which either pyrethrum, or styrene dibromide is dissolved. Both are effective if applied at the right time and in the right quantity. The quantity to use is what can be pulled up into a common medicine dropper by slowly releasing the compressed bulb, which is about 0.75 of a cubic centimeter of the liquid. It can be applied either with a special applicator or with a common medicine dropper. Tests show that this will give 75 to 90 percent control, which is good for earworm control.

The new insecticide DDT is also known to be effective, but methods of applying are not yet worked out. Perhaps, in another year, this insecticide will be on the market for earworms as well as other pests of the garden.

Corn earworm oils are now on the market at many supply stores. These have the necessary poison agents added and are ready to apply. Time of application is late August and September. That is the season of the year when the earworms are sufficiently troublesome to justify using this treatment.

Estimates of hog slaughter at 32 leading centers amounted to under 300,000 head this week, with the volume of pork and lard expected to drop to the lowest level since the turn of the century.

Scott's Scrap Book

The number of cattle was expected to be near 145,748 head, the year's previous low reached in early June.

(WFA)—Choice fed steers and yearlings closed strong to 25 cents higher, but all steers selling at $17 downward finished generally 25 to 50 cents lower. Strictly graded choice heifers were firm but all others were lower to mostly 25 to 50 cents off. Top steers brought the $18 OPA limit.

All grades of cows continued moderately active and the closing trade was steady to a quarter lower. Bulls finished as much as 50 cents lower. Vealers were steady to 50 cents lower and all grades of stockers and feeders finished fairly active and steady.

Approximately 14,000 hogs sold through Thursday compared with 43,434 during the corresponding period last year. Almost all grades brought ceiling prices.

Native slaughter lambs and shorn aged ewes were steady to 25 cents higher but good and choice native spring lambs topped at $14.75.

KILLING GROUNDHOGS

"Put about a table spoon full of 'cyanogas' about as far back in a groundhog's hole as you can reach, put a piece of sod over the entrance, and then some dirt on it, and you'll have your groundhog killed and buried," Paul Haag, county agent of Adams county, Ohio, advises. "If you do this early in the summer, you'll get the young ones too," he added. Try his method and let me know how you get along.

SMUT IN WHEAT

I learned this week of so much smut in wheat that the operators of the combine had to wear masks.

Many grains had the center completely filled with a black dust—the spores or seeds of the black rust fungi. There was so much smut in the wheat that I advised getting new seed, and not trying to treat it.

SUDAN GRASS

John Elliott, Seaman, Ohio, R. F. D. sowed 500 lbs. of Sudan grass on 20 acres early in June this year. He has an enormous amount of very good pasture for his dairy cattle, at a time in the year when much bluegrass is almost dormant.

Part of the field was plowed, a fine firm seed bed prepared at once, and the seed drilled about three inches deep with a wheat drill so as to be sure of getting it down to moist earth. The stand is very good.

The rest of the field was double disked and a good seed bed prepared. The weeds are bad on this part of the field and the stand poor.

"We were well paid for plowing the ground in a better stand and almost no weeds," Mr. Elliott explained.

GOOD HEIFERS

John Elliott, Jr., in this home has a pure bred, registered Jersey heifer that will freshen this fall, as a part of his home project in the Seaman vocational agricultural school.

John is also starting in the honey business. By the time this gets into print, he'll have a hive of Caucasian bees on the farm. They are quiet bees and do very little stinging. I saw the owner of a hive of these bees take the honey from them last week without using any smoke at all on them. He doesn't advise doing this, but it can be done.

HAY MADE THE NEW WAY

I saw that on the Elliott farm. The hay was cut in the morning, after the dew was off, raked into small windrows about four o'clock, and the next day about one o'clock, these windrows were turned over with the hay rake, and allowed to dry about an hour, and then put in to the barn. The hay had a green color, and a fragrance that any livestock would like.

Using this method of making hay prevents most of the loss of the leaves, keeps the vitamins well, and then it has a higher protein content than hay wet by dew in the swath.

NAILS IN THE LOWER SLAT OF A GATE

We recently saw that on the W. H. McCormick farm, Seaman, Ohio, R. F. D., operated by D. B. Butler and his fine family. They were six penny nails, driven in about an inch apart, so that when an old sow gave a push to open the gate, she hurt her nose on the nails. "Once is all a sow will push on that gate," one of the members of the family said.

PARTNERSHIPS ON FARMS SEEN FOR VETERANS

Need for Return to Farm Would Be Helped by Agreements

There is a need for many boys to come back to the farm, and workable farm partnerships can play a leading role in getting them started. Their long-time success depends to a great extent upon the choice of business agreement or partnership they make with an established farmer, either within or outside the family.

It is important first to make clear the difference in the terms "partnership" and "business agreement." In a partnership, each member is legally responsible for the actions of the other, while other forms of agreement avoid this legality and are therefore favored by many farm economists.

Successful Farming magazine presents three possible moves for the young veteran besides farming with his dad or some other farmer. He can buy a farm—which at today's prices would be a dangerous proposition. He can start to rent by himself—this offers almost as many difficulties if he doesn't have a cash reserve for livestock, machinery, and living expenses. The third alternative of working as a hired man is an excellent opportunity for a young, single man to acquire both cash and experience.

But the partnership allows the young farmer to get started in business with a minimum of cash. I. W. Arthur, Iowa State College economist, has found three important questions, which, if they are answered honestly, can help avoid most of the mistakes of such an agreement.

The first question: Can the farm support two families? Renting more land is one solution, but often the poultry or livestock enterprises can be expanded to increase farm returns.

The second question: Can separate living quarters be maintained? Regardless of the size of the home or the availability of rooms, Arthur has found that it seldom works out to have two families living together for more than a short time.

The third question to get settled is the type of business agreement which will work best. A work-it-out-as-you-go system will not be at all satisfactory, says Arthur. He has found the most successful arrangement is a division of returns on the basis of the percentage contribution of each.

WET YEARS SWELL CATTLE BLOAT LOSS

No Definite Cause of Death Yet Found

Farmers who have been arguing about the causes of death from cattle bloat have reached no agreement and the veterinarians are not yet ready to make positive statements about the death factors, but agree it appears certain that cattle bloat is much more prevalent during rainy years such as 1945.

One midwestern rendering plant reported processing 300 cattle killed by bloat in one week this year. Pastures which ordinarily produce no forage except mature bluegrass have been kept so well watered by frequent rains that a heavy growth of white clover is noticeable.

One of the latest theories about bloat is that the animal's death is caused by the forcing of noxious gases into the blood stream, and the finger of suspicion is pointed at hydrogen sulphide which could be produced from the sulphur content of clover. Another group of theorists say bloat is due to the absence of dry forage which would irritate the paunch lining and cause belching.

Veterinarians say the successful treatment of bloat depends upon reducing gas pressure in the paunch. Serious cases usually can be saved only by puncturing the rumen in the proper spot. The bloat is detected soon enough, a drench of turpentine, formalin, oil, and possibly other liquids may produce relief. The simplest treatment is a gag placed across the animal's mouth to stimulate belching.

and the certification of the buyer that the animals were bought for slaughter.

Sheep or lambs sold on or after August 5 are eligible for the subsidy, and the present schedule of payments carries through June, 1946. The subsidy rates are $1.50 to $2.50 on medium lambs weighing 65 to 90 pounds, $2.15 to $3.15 on lambs weighing more than 90 pounds, and $1.00 on all other sheep.

The subsidy is paid only to the person who sells to the slaughterer. Animals must be weighed, but several can be weighed in one draft and the average taken. It is presumed that animals of like classification will be weighed together.

PLAYING FAIR WITH SOIL SPOTS SMART FARMING

Smart farming is not only a matter of getting the highest possible crop yields per acre, but of playing absolutely fair with the soil that produces them, according to a statement made public here by the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee.

"That means conserving or increasing the plant food resources of the soil," the statement points out. "The farmer who produces high yields without replenishing the supply of nutrients in the land through fertilization is inviting eventual bankruptcy."

CHICKEN HOUSE CLEANING HELPS CHECK DISEASE

Painting and Washing With Disinfectants Before Pulletts Put In

By D. D. Mayer

Poultry management problems next winter can be reduced by some preliminary work before the present pullet crop must be housed by starting disease and parasite control with a thorough cleaning of the laying house before the pullets are placed in it.

The cleaning will be most effective if the yearling layers can be removed so the house will be empty several weeks before the pullets are moved in. Bacteria and mites can be brought under control in the interval.

Remove all litter from the laying house, and then scrape the floors, roosts, and other dirty surfaces. The next step is washing the house with a sufficient amount of water to soak the floors and to remove all remaining litter and droppings.

The cleaning should be completed by washing floors, roosts, and lower walls with a lye-water solution made by adding one can of lye to 15 gallons of water. The cleaning will be done better if the water is hot. Removable equipment should be taken outside the house to be cleaned and then should remain exposed to the sun for several days.

Mites can be controlled by painting the roosts, roost supports, sills, and the wall under the roosts with creosote oil. This should be done after the house has dried out. An annual application of the oil will keep the mites down to negligible numbers.

500,000 JOBLESS PREDICTED IN OHIO

BUC Administrator Confers With Governor

COLUMBUS, Aug. 18—(P)—Gov. Frank J. Lausche conferred today with C. H. Jones, administrator of the bureau of unemployment compensation and State Finance Director H. D. Deffenbacher and reported it has been estimated 500,000 Ohioans would be thrown out of work in the near future and thus be eligible for unemployment compensation.

The three agreed they had no idea how many of those half million persons would be jobless long enough to draw the compensation.

The governor said there now are approximately 2,100,000 persons in Ohio who are covered by unemployment compensation and that figure is an increase of 700,000 over the pre-war total.

LEGISLATURE ASKED FOR POSTWAR HELP

CINCINNATI, Aug. 18—(P)—City Councilman Albert D. Cash said last night he had sent a letter to Gov. Frank J. Lausche urging him to call a special session of the general assembly to adopt adequate legislation to help Ohio cities through the post-war period.

Cash said his letter suggested that legislation on slum clearance and urban redevelopment, housing and integration of governmental units in urban communities would go far in assuring continued maximum employment in the state.

API Edges Hoff's Market And Wilsons Swamp Co. D

A two-run last inning rally snatched the game out of the fire and gave the API a 3 to 2 victory over Hoff's Marketers Friday night in the highlight of the triple feature program and one of the hottest softball games in the Twilight League in weeks.

Four Hoff errors did not do him any good, but it was the six hits the API boys collected off of Hoff's offerings that really turned the trick. The Marketers were rendered impotent by Hill, being held to a scant two safeties by the API hurler.

Yankees Riding Toboggan With 8-Game Loss Streak

By JACK HAND

By the Associated Press

Yankee fortunes have reached a such a sorry pass that Manager

Joe McCarthy has been ejected

by an umpire for the second time in his 15 years as New York manager and the club is staggering

on an unbroken eight-game losing streak toward its first seventh division finish in 20 seasons.

Not since 1925 when the Yanks pulled up a badly beaten seventh under the late Miller Higgins have the erstwhile Bronx Bombers been out of the first three.

Only a week ago the club, apparently buoyed by McCarthy's return, had won two in a row and ranked third only 2 1-2 games behind Detroit.

A setback in the series finale at Cleveland, four straight on the chin in Detroit and three more in St. Louis sent them reeling into sixth place as the White Sox, Indians and finally the Browns moved ahead. The losing string ties the longest in McCarthy's regime at the stadium.

Marse Joe Rarely sets foot on the diamond, choosing to mastermind from the dugout, but last night he came out to protest when umpire Red Jones called Vern

Stephens safe at first base in the sixth inning of the game with St.

Louis, ruling Nick Etten's foot was off the bag. Etten got the heave-ho first and McCarthy soon followed.

Nelson Potter limited New York to four hits in earning his 10th victory at the expense of rookie Ken Holcombe, making his first major league start after a half season in the bullpen.

Big game of the day was in Detroit where Washington clipped

the Tigers' lead to 2 1-2

lengths by grabbing a 3-1 tilt behind Mickey Haefner. Buddy

Lewis, discharged air force captain, walloped his first homer since rejoining his club in the attack on Stubby Overmire.

Cleveland advanced to within a half game of the third place Chicago White Sox by edging Philadelphia, 6-4, while Boston swam- || ped the Pale Hose, 8-2. Phil Mar- |

| a 10-game losing string in |
| downing Charley the Red of St. |
| Louis on Andy Seminick's two- |
| run homer. |
| There was a near-riot at Ebbets |
| Field when umpire Tom Dunn |

| putout snuffed a Dodger rally |

PLANS FOR API TO BE OUTLINED SATURDAY NIGHT

Company President Says Change Came Rapidly After Jap Defeat

What the Jap surrender will mean to the recently dwindling number of workers at The Aeronautical Products, Inc. plant here may be known by early next week.

Charles C. Layman, president of the API today had what he indicated as a complete and frank statement outlining the company's postwar program and plans ready to make at a dinner meeting at the Country Club Saturday evening.

The outline is to be given to shop committee members, stewards and members of the supervisory force (including the foremen) with their wives who have been invited to the dinner.

Although layoffs of workers are known to have taken place recently, no figures either as to the number who have laid down their tools or those who are remaining have been given by company officials.

Layman said Friday afternoon that plans had been completely changed before he arrived here from the main office of the company that morning and, he added, there had been more new developments since he came in. He did not elaborate on what these were or what their effect was expected to be. He declared "things are changing so rapidly right now that I obviously can't make any statement now," but he said he planned to give a comprehensive picture of the future of the API plant here at Saturday night's meeting.

While he implied he and other company officials were in the midst of negotiations, presumably concerning production for peacetime, he did not mention anything specific.

The reversal that outwardly appears to have come to the city's biggest and newest war industry was not a surprise. Precision parts for warplanes that were used in blasting the Germans and Japs into submission poured off its assembly lines day and night for more than two years.

With the wholesale cancelling of contracts by the army and navy and the cutbacks of orders for all types of airplanes, most of the workers felt that sooner or later these would be felt here. When the first of the layoffs came, they were expected and accepted with no more than normal speculation.

When the plant was running at peak production with three shifts around the clock upwards of 2,000 men and women were on the payroll. Several months ago, the equipment was rearranged and some changes were made. About the same time one shift of workers was eliminated and the hour schedule on the remaining two revised.

Layman gave no intimation that there had been anything to upset previously often repeated plans to convert the plant to production of peacetime goods such as precision parts for automobiles and motors. He implied that the present "changes" he had referred to were anticipated, though perhaps they came sooner than expected, that the present conditions were not expected to continue and that the layoff of most of the workers would be temporary.

SATURDAY DANCE PLANNED BY MOOSE

The Moose lodge hall here will be a busy place Saturday night when a 50-50 dance, old fashioned fiddlers' contest and a generous supply of refreshments will feature the party which is to begin at 9 P. M.

All members and prospects are especially invited to attend — and to bring their wives and sweethearts. A large attendance is expected.

Shipment of 23 Raccoon Is Expected Soon

There are 730 pheasants in Fayette County now.

A shipment of 23 raccoon, the largest quota from the Milan state raccoon farm for years, is expected here soon, Burns said. ## SGT. JOE BERGER AWARDED MEDAL FOR GOOD WORK

Citation Tells of Work During European Battles as Ammunition Clerk

Sgt. Floren J. (Joe) Berger, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Berger of the Boren Road in western Fayette County, is wearing a bronze star medal now.

The medal, one of the army's highest awards, was presented Sgt. Berger, 26, for helping to maintain "a smooth and constant flow of ammunition to those using it."

In the service for three years, Sgt. Berger has served overseas for 18 months. During these months he has been in France, Luxembourg, Belgium and Germany, always doing a good job as clerk of an ammunition section.

Before he went into the army, he managed the Marathon filling station at Court and Market Street. He was there for two years. He is a graduate of the Sabina High School and also attended Blanchester schools.

Mrs. Berger, who lives with her parents in Indiana, is more than proud of her husband's citation, which reads:

"For distinguishing himself by meritorious service in connection with military operations against an enemy of the United States from 24 June 1944 to 8 May, 1945, in France, Luxembourg, Belgium and Germany. Sgt. Berger serving as clerk in the ammunition section performed his duties in an outstanding manner. His resourcefulness and technical ability maintained a smooth and constant flow of ammunition to those using it. The initiative, good judgment and untiring devotion to duty displayed by Sgt. Berger reflects great credit upon himself and the military service."

MAIL LOAD HEAVY FOR 12 CARRIERS

Three Day's Accumulation Is Delivered Friday

The city letter carriers shouldered a gigantic load of mail Friday—and you can take that literally.

The three day accumulation of undelivered letters, papers and magazines swelled the load of each of the six mailmen to at least 150 pounds — and that's a lot of weight to carry around on one shoulder.

Rural delivery mail was by far the heaviest, though.

Two days issues of newspapers plus the letters and parcels made such a load of mail that the mail carriers' cars were bulging.

Because Saturday is a short delivery day anyway, the big delivery just had to be made without spreading it over two days.

LAST MINUTE PLANTINGS ALL RIGHT IN GARDENS

In most gardens at this time of year, many crops have been harvested. If the stalks of the plants are allowed to stand, they serve as a breeding place for insects and diseases which may spread to adjacent crops. It is recommended that all crop residues which have passed their usable stage be removed from the garden or plowed under. Some of this land could then be profitably used for spinach, turnips, leaf lettuce, and endive.

33 REGISTERED FOR FIRST TIME AT HIGH SCHOOL

Most New Students Come from Elementary Grades in County System

Thirty-three students will begin classes at Washington High School September 4 who never before have been a member of the student body.

Stephen C. Brown, high school principal, said Saturday 33 brand-new registrations had been taken during the two-day period of registration. Originally, the registration was to be Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, but the Japanese surrender telescoped all the activity into the last two days. Brown and his secretary, Miss Marjorie Swartz, took care of all the registration.

Most of the 33 boys and girls will be freshmen and most of them come from elementary schools in the county system. A few are children of parents who recently have moved to town, Brown added.

While the two days were given over primarily to registration of new students, boys and girls who wanted to change their schedules also were given consideration. Brown said any other people who wanted to change their schedules should contact him the first of next week.

ALL MANPOWER CONTROLS ARE ABOLISHED HERE

USES To Return to Peacetime Matching of Men and Jobs

All manpower controls which the wartime emergency brought to Washington C. H. and Fayette County are abolished now, Ward C. Miller, deputy area director of the War Manpower Commission, said today.

"The abolishment includes referrals and statements of availability," Miller said as he paid tribute to both labor and management in the county for their whole-hearted cooperation and achievement to the end that final and complete victory be won.

The USES now will return to its basic job of service to workers and employers in matching men and jobs rather than its war role of administering labor market controls, Miller said. All the facilities of the USES will be geared to the end that reconversion to civilian production will be accomplished as speedily as possible and that every returning veteran and every displaced war worker may be gainfully employed, Miller added.
